The Road Vasilii Semenovich Grossman, 2010-09-28 The writer whom Vasily Grossman loved most of all was Anton Chekhov. Grossman's own short stories are no less accomplished than his novels, and they are remarkably varied. "The Dog" is about the first living creature to be sent into space and then returned to Earth. "The Road," an account of the war from a mule in an Italian artillery regiment, can be read as a 4,000-word distillation of Life and Fate. "Mother" is based on a true story about an orphaned girl who was adopted by Nikolay Yezhov (head of the NKVD at the height of the Great Terror) and his wife; it includes brief portraits of Stalin and several important Soviet writers and politicians—all of them as seen through the eyes of the little girl or of her honest but uncomprehending peasant nanny. As well as a dozen stories—from "In the Town of Berdichev" (Grossman's first published success) to "In Kislovodsk" (the last story he wrote)—this volume includes an unusual article about the life of a Moscow cemetery. It also contains two letters Grossman wrote to his mother, after her death at the hands of the Nazis, and the complete text of "The Hell of Treblinka," one of the very first, and still among the most powerful, accounts of a Nazi death camp.

Why the Fuck Not? David L. Litvin, 2023-11-30 How can our country be so divided when all of us want the same things--the same four ourselves, our families, and our children? What if I told you that this could be the best time in human history? Together we stand at the dawn of a new era. For the first time in human history there really is more than enough to go around. We have the resources to feed, clothe, house, educate, and care for everyone without anyone having less than they do now. What if I told you that you could flip a switch and make this a new reality for all of us? It's called 4 For All. And it is possible, if we all want it. Come along with me as I reveal how I believe we got into this horrible mess, and stay with me as we find the ways to fix it. Why the fuck not?

Literature of Nature Patrick D. Murphy, Terry Gifford, Katsunori Yamazato, 1998 First Published in 1999. Routledge is an imprint of Taylor & Francis, an informa company.

The Duppy Anthony C. Winkler, 2008-03-01 "Every country (if she's lucky) gets the Mark Twain she deserves, and Winkler is ours, bristling with savage Jamaican wit" (Marlon James). Being dead is most definitely an impediment to writing a book, under ordinary circumstances. But the narrator of this novel, Taddeus Augustus Baps, has turned into a duppy—a ghost renowned in Caribbean folklore—and he has a story to tell. At first, he thinks that his new status as a spirit will provide some mischievous fun, but he's in for disappointment. He gets whisked off to heaven—via minibus—where he meets not only God but some other interesting characters, and finds that the afterlife can be more irritating than one might expect . . . This smart, rollicking, and ultimately uplifting tale is a delight from the prize-winning author of The Lunatic and other comic novels. As The Independent said of Anthony Winkler's work, "It's almost as if P. G. Wodehouse had strolled into the world of Bob Marley."

Real and Phantom Pains, 2014-10-09 An anthology of ten plays embodying the Russian literary movement that began in the late twentieth century. The plays selected for this anthology reflect the issues and styles typical of the new wave of dramatic writing in Russia. New drama flourished (almost) exclusively in small spaces, often in dingy basements that employed and accommodated small numbers of people. The big theaters largely turned a blind eye to what was happening on small stages and in backrooms in playhouses, libraries, and community centers in a few chosen hot spots around Russia: primarily Moscow, Yekaterinburg and Togliatti. In many cases, they took actively hostile stances toward it. This would change, however. And by the beginning of the century's second decade, new drama was threatening to become a mainstream phenomenon. Not every theater staged plays associated with new drama, but almost every one began staging plays influenced by the themes, methods, and language of the new drama movement. Featuring work from Yuri Klavdiev, Olga Mukhina, Pavel Pryazhko, Vasily Sigarev, Maksym Kurochkin, Mikhail Durnenkov, Vyacheslav Durnenkov, Yaroslava Pulinovich, Yelena Gremina, and Maxim Osipov. "Few people know more about what is happening on the Moscow scene than John Freedman (including few Russians). As Moscow Times theater critic throughout the post-Soviet period John could well have seen more theatrical productions in Russia than anyone else. I can't imagine anyone who would do a better job." —Blair A. Ruble, Director, Program on Global Sustainability & Resilience, Woodrow Wilson Center "While other existing volumes focus on 18th, 19th, and early 20th century Russian drama, Freedman's edition would present the unique and important contributions of the new generation of Russian writers portraying the realities and experiences of a post-Soviet generation. John has carefully selected a representative cohort of ten of the most visible, productive, and influential of these writers for the volume.” —Thomas J. Garza, University Distinguished Teaching Associate Professor, University of Texas at Austin
