Maslach Burnout Inventory Christina Maslach, Susan E. Jackson, Michael P. Leiter, 2006

Maslach Burnout Inventory Christina Maslach, 2016 Recognized as the leading measure of burnout, the Maslach Burnout Inventory (MBI) is validated by the extensive research that has been conducted in the more than 25 years since its initial publication. The MBI Surveys address three general scales: --Emotional Exhaustion measures feelings of being emotionally overextended and exhausted by one's work. --Depersonalization measures an unfeeling and impersonal response toward recipients of one's service, care treatment, or instruction. --Personal Accomplishment measures feelings of competence and successful achievement in one's work.

MBI Maslach Burnout Inventory Christina Maslach, Susan E. Jackson, Michael P. Leiter, 1996 The most popular measure of burnout has been the Maslach Burnout Inventory (MBI) ever since it was introduced in 1981 (Maslach & Jackson, 1981; Schaufeli & Enzmann, 1998). Maslach and Jackson (1981, 1986) defined burnout as a three-dimensional syndrome of Emotional Exhaustion (feeling emotionally drained by one's contact with other people), Depersonalization (negative feelings and cynical attitudes toward the recipients of one's service or care), and reduced Personal Accomplishment (a tendency to evaluate negatively one's own work) that occurs among individuals who work with people in some capacity. CONTENTS: Using the MBI-human services survey - The MBI-general survey - The MBI-educators survey - Current and future research.

Predictors of Burnout Among Ohio Licensed Psychologists Using the Maslach Burnout Inventory Cynthia A.

Wohlford-Lotas,2005 Demographic information and measures on the Maslach Burnout Inventory (MBI) were obtained for 151 Ohio licensed psychologists. Seven independent variables were examined in predicting burnout. Multiple regression analyses revealed that most psychologists within this sample scored within the low range for all subscales: Emotional Exhaustion (EE), 57%; Depersonalization (DP), 76%; Personal Accomplishment (PA), 77%. Number of hours per week providing supervision to others was predictive of burnout on all three subscales. Additionally, age, number of hours per week spent teaching, and employment setting, were predictive of Emotional Exhaustion subscale scores. Similarly, age and number of hours spent in obtaining supervision were predictive of scores on the Depersonalization (DP) subscale. Personal Accomplishment (PA) subscale scores were predicted by the variables, number of hours per week spent in direct service with clientele, and type of employment setting. Psychologists in private practice reported less burnout than those working in the public sector.

Handbook of Occupational Health and Wellness Robert J. Gatchel,Izabela Z. Schultz,2012-12-21 This book integrates the growing clinical research evidence related to the emerging transdisciplinary field of occupational health and wellness. It includes a wide range of important topics, ranging from current conceptual approaches to health and wellness in the workplace, to common problems in the workplace such as presenteeism/abstenteeism, common illnesses, job-related burnout, to prevention and intervention methods. It consists of five major parts. Part I, "Introduction and Overviews," provides an overview and critical evaluation of the emerging conceptual models that are currently driving the clinical research and practices in the field. This serves as the initial platform to help better understand the subsequent topics to be discussed. Part II, "Major Occupational Symptoms and Disorders," exposes the reader to the types of critical occupational health risks that have been well documented, as well as the financial and productivity losses associated with them. In Part III, "Evaluation of Occupational Causes and Risks to Workers' Health," a comprehensive evaluation of these risks and causes of such occupational health threats is provided. This leads to Part IV, "Prevention and Intervention Methods," which delineates methods to prevent or intervene with these potential occupational health issues. Part V, "Research, Evaluation, Diversity and Practice,” concludes the book with the review of epidemiological, measurement, diversity, policy, and practice issues—with guidelines on changes that are needed to decrease the economic and health care impact of illnesses in the workplace, and recommendations for future. All chapters provide a balance among theoretical models, current best-practice guidelines, and evidence-based documentation of such models and guidelines. The contributors were carefully selected for their unique knowledge, as well as their ability to meaningfully present this information in a comprehensive manner. As such, this Handbook is of great interest and use to health care and rehabilitation professionals, management and human resource personnel, researchers and academicians alike.
