Manage location permissions for apps You can let apps use your device's location to take action for you or give you information. For example, apps can use your device's location to display commute traffic or find nearby restaurants. Manage your Android device's location settings - Google Help You can use location-based services such as local search results, commute predictions, and nearby restaurants based on your device's location, when device location is on in settings.

Understand & manage your location when you search on Google Your location comes from a variety of sources, which are used together to estimate where you are. You can update your location settings as you use Google services to get the search results you want and control your privacy in a way that's right for you. Search locations on Google Maps General places on the map Local results appear for people who search for businesses and places near their location. They're shown in various places across Maps and Search. For example, if you search for "Italian restaurant" from your mobile device, you can get local results. Google shows you nearby restaurants that you'd want to visit. Understand & manage your location when you search on Google

Manage your device location settings Phones and tablets can send location information to apps and websites if your device location setting is turned on, and your app and browser permissions allow it. You can control whether location is sent from your device to any app or website, including google.com, by changing your location permissions. About Location Manager - Google Ads Help Location Manager helps you easily manage and view your business locations. With Location Manager, you have a central location in the Google Ads front end for all of your store data, making it easier to keep track of your store configuration and make changes as needed. Find & improve your location's accuracy in Google Maps

Find & improve your location's accuracy in Google Maps Your location might be difficult for Google Maps to find. If the GPS location of your blue dot on the map is inaccurate or missing, you can take steps to help fix the problem. Search by latitude & longitude in Google Maps On your computer, open Google Maps. On the map, right-click the place or area. A pop-up window appears. At the top, you can find your latitude and longitude in decimal format. To copy the coordinates, click on the latitude and longitude. Manage your Location History - Google Account Help Google Location Services Location Sharing Find

My Device If settings like Web and App Activity are on but you turn off Location History or delete location data from Location History, your Google Account may still save location data as part of your use of other Google sites, apps, and services.
